The Excalibur's concealed flue system is unique in the industry. The flue passageway has a flat machined steel top surface that keeps platters or sauces warm. As it is level with the range's flat cooking surface, it allows chefs to pass items across the island without obstruction. There are no vent panels where spillage can accumulate, and flue products are diverted through this double passageway to the vertical flue risers, which also support shelving.

OPTIMIZATION

Utilize all available work areas by adding refrigerated drawers or heated cabinets.
